A-19 85. In a letter No. 1129 of 22nd December 1892, the Collector, Coorg Station of Kushalnagar, submits for the Resident's perusal a book called the "Science of Accounts" published in the Coorg Station of Kushalnagar.

86 This book has been presented to the Collector for registration. Under the provisions contained in para 2 of the Resident's Notification No. 835 of 2nd April A-13 1886, the publisher should furnish the Collector with a copy of ~~procure~~ his the bona fide sale price of the copy should be paid to him. The Publisher has priced this book at Rs 100/- which the Collector considers to be exorbitant, and asks for instructions whether this amount may be paid. If payment is to be made, it is the budget allotment under 32-Miscellaneous: Coorg books has the reason from 1880-15 to 1301-

87 It will be seen from para 2 of the Collector's letter that a doubt is expressed as to the bona fide sale price of the book. The first edition was published in Madras, of 100 copies. only 10 copies were sold in 3 years which were taken by the Govt of Madras under the provisions of Act XXV of 1867 on payment of Rs 100/- a copy, & 7 were sold to the public. This it is submitted is quite enough to assume that the bona fide price demanded is bona fide, and as the rules require the purchase of one copy, payment must this to be made. As the provision under the minor head is insufficient reappropriation may, if available, be made from some other minor head under the same major head. A sum of Rs 1060/- is allotted for "Miscellaneous & Unforeseen charges" & very probably the required amount may be saved from that head. The Collector

may be asked if this can be done. 5 4

88. In this connection attention is invited to the pen-ultimate para of the Publisher's preface in pages i & ii of the book. It is stated that the Govt of Madras was "compelled" to own the price of the book. Should this be so, the bona-fide of the sale price need not be questioned. Certain proceedings of the Govt of Madras are quoted in this para, & the Collector might have satisfied himself as to the bona fide of the price by looking at those papers which the Publishers owned not have refused to show to him.

89 In the 3rd para of the letter, the Collector recommends that the Legislative Dept be addressed with a view to the gratis supply in future of copies of the the publications presented for registration.

In the Law Station, one copy only is to be taken under the Act while in British India three copies are taken. ~~For the reasons mentioned in the~~ ~~letter of the Madras Govt.~~, If any action is to be taken in the matter, it is desirable that the administration of any Presidency or Province in British India should take the initiative, such as the Madras Govt. which has incurred an expenditure of Rs 300/- in connection with the very book under reference.

90 If approved, the Collector may be informed in reply, that the copy should be paid for at its price, Rs 10/- which has already been accepted by the Govt. of Madras, & asked if the necessary amount may be appropriated from the allotment of Rs 1060 under "Miscellaneous & Unforeseen charges" subordinate to the same major head.

98 Under this Act, & the rules framed thereunder for application in the U & Ex Station a copy of the books published has to be delivered to the Collector on payment of the bona fide sale price to the public. A book named "the Science of Accounts" was thus presented, and the payment of its price (Rs 100) is pending disposal.

99 The price asked for is undoubtedly enormous, but the Legislative Secretary states that as the law does not stand in the U & Ex Station the price at which it is bona fide sold for cash to the public should be paid. The Madras Govt accepted the price claimed & paid for 3 copies. We have however asked the Collector in Sl. No. 20 to call on the publishers to give proof of bona fide sale to private individuals of copies at Rs 100/- a copy, and no reply has yet been received. If appears

Mr. Macpherson refers to Sir Philip Hutchins speech in the Legislative Council on the 20th December 1889 relative to the bill to amend Act XXV of 1867. In this speech, Sir Philip Hutchins comments on the excessive price demanded for books and alludes to the case of the very book now under reference. Act XXV of 1867 has now been repealed by Act X of 1890, in which provision is made for the free supply of books to Govt required under the act, and Mr. Macpherson suggests that steps should be taken to have this Act extended to the Lt In Straits. The Collector may, if approved, be asked for his opinion & for a draft notification embodying the amendments required in the Act to suit the circumstances of the Lt In Straits.

Miscellaneous Miscellaneous & Unforeseen charges."

105. In this connection, please see paras: 98, 99, 101 & 102 of note.

The budget allotment under "32 Miscellaneous" cost of books & publications is Rs 30/-

The provision of Rs 1700 under "Miscellaneous & Unforeseen charges" is for the most part intended for payment towards the liquidation of Bishop Cotton's School. forwards accordingly for approval a draft notification which mostly repeats the provisions of the Act itself as amended.

109. The chief feature of the amending Act of 1890 was to provide for the supply of books under the Act of 1847 free free of expense to Government, and so far as this matter is concerned, any requisite modification of the existing rules seems called for.

Reference is made in the Collectors' draft revised rules to the supply of further copies of publications under Sec: 9 (b) of the Act as amended. Since it has been held by the Govt of India that we are not required to supply under Act XXV of 1867 books published in the Colonies to the Secretary of State &c, no such reference is desirable in the rules issued by the Resident.
It may however be stated that on the requisition of the Govt of India independent of the provisions of Act XXV of 1867, quarterly Catalogues & books as may be required are supplied to the British Museum in London, the cost of the latter being recovered from the Museum Authorities.

Rule 1 of the draft rules

D. No. 12

D. No. 5. File No. 159/89

110 In these circumstances, the only modifications required in the Rules of 1886 seem to be:-

(a) in clause 1, add the words "free of expense to Government" between the words "by the printer" & words "to the Collector & the Magistrate

(b) in clause 2, omit the words "and shall thereupon pay the printer on production of the usual bill the bona fide sale price of the copy of the book described in the said memorandum".

III It does not seem desirable to ~~re-issue~~ publish the whole of the rules with the slight modifications above noticed, the modifications alone may, if approved be notified.

Dated, Bangalore 22d December 1892

Sir

I have the honor to submit for the Resident's perusal the accompanying book called the "Science of Accounts" printed and published in the Civil and Military Station, received for registration under Act XXV of 1867. The publishers have also presented the enclosed bill for payment of the value of the book which is 100-~~0~~. As this price seems to me very exorbitant I request the Resident's instructions, if such a large amount should be paid in which case, I would suggest the budget allotment under Ship Abelr.

32 miscellaneous" be raised from ₹30 to 130. for the current year.

2. I would point out that the provisions of the Act above quoted and the rules issued by the Resident thereunder, make it obligatory on the part of the Government to pay the bonâfide value. It is rather difficult, in a case like this, under reference, to find out the bonâfides of the transaction until the public appreciate the authors' labour and buy the whole (400) Copies at Rs. 100/ each. At any rate the law (as it now is) does not prevent the publisher pricing his book even at 10,000/ Rs. per copy. The publishers say, that out of 100. Copies of the first edition of this work, published at Madras, only 10. Copies were sold bonâfide for Rs. 100/ each of which, the Madras Government appear to have purchased 3 under the provisions of the Registration of books Act, and the remaining 7 Copies were issued to the public.

See 20 Vict. XV of 1867

3. I beg to invite the Resident's attention to the latter part of the Honorable Mr. Hobhouse's address to the Legislative Council on the introduction of the Registration of Books Bill published at pages 156 & 157, Supplement to the Gazette of India, dated 2nd March 1867; and would suggest the desirability of amending the law so as to make the printers present 1 Copy for Registration, free of Cost. The Honorable Mr Hobhouse remarked then that it would create hardship to introduce any such provision as the publishers would be compelled to deliver 8 Copies free of Cost; and that, consequently, the Act would become a dead letter. I do not think, that we can anticipate any such difficulty now, inasmuch as only 1 Copy is required to be presented for Registration; the publishers have now learnt the advantage and importance of securing the Copy-right. In some instances a work may Consists of a Series of Volumes or engravings, which no doubt would cost the publishers a Considerable sum, and they might be unwilling to part with a Copy of their books for nothing. I would therefore recommend recommend that, in such cases, the printers or publishers be paid the bonâfide, or average Cost of each Volume calculated on the number of Copies, of which, the Edition Consists. In the case, now under reference, I am of opinion that the cost of printing and binding each Copy has not cost the publishers more than Rs: 2/- for which, they expect Government to pay Rs: 100/-!

Yes, but there is - ing in the Com Act - in Bom. Lahore 3 Copies Law Tax!

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT INDIA

CALCUTTA
The 4th March, 1893.

Dear Sir,

In reply to your demi-official dated the 30th ultimo, I would invite a reference to Sir Philip Hutchins's speech* in the Legislative Council on the 20th December 1889, relative to the Bill to amend Act XXV of 1867. It is there explained why the clause in section 10 of the act as to payment for copies of books delivered to the Government was repealed by Act X of 1890 (see the revised section 10 in section 4 of Act X of 1890, from which the payment clause is omitted). The case of the book mentioned in your letter would show that Act X of 1890 is required in Bangalore, and I would suggest that steps should be taken to

to have the Act applied by Notification in the Gazette of Simla.

2. In the meantime the copy of the book to which you refer as having been presented for registration must, as the law now stands in Bangalore, be paid for at the price at which it is "bona fide sold for cash to the public." The cost of production does not affect the question, nor probably does the "published price", which is always - at least in England - considerably in excess of the cost-price. If the book is exposed for sale anywhere, the selling price could be ascertained; but, if not, the usual reduction of 25 percent on the published price might be offered.

Sir,

With reference to your letters cited in the margin I have the honor to state that the extension of Act X of 1890 (An Act to amend Act XXV of 1867) into the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore is very necessary - I have already in my letter No 1129 dated the 22nd December 1892, expressed my opinion regarding the difficulty experienced in working the existing law (in its unamended form) for the registration of books. The introduction to the Assigned Tract of the amending Act in its entirety under the usual

Extension of Act X of 1890 to the C. and M. Station of Bangalore.

No. 4087—15-85, dated Bangalore, the 1st December 1893.

From—Colonel P. D. Henderson, Resident in Mysore,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department.

I have the honour to recommend the extension, to the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, of the provisions of Act X of 1890 so far as they may be applicable.

2. The provisions of Act XXV of 1867, which is in force in the Station and the rules issued by the Resident thereunder, make it obligatory on the part of Government to pay the bonâ fide sale-price of a book that is delivered under section 9 of that Act. In one case which occurred recently the publisher had to be paid R100 for a single copy of a book. The extension of the above Act is therefore quite necessary.

3. A draft Notification is enclosed.

DRAFT NOTIFICATION.

Whereas the Governor-General in Council has power and jurisdiction within the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore; In exercise of such power and jurisdiction, and of the powers conferred by sections 4 and 5 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, XXI of 1879, and of all other powers enabling him in this behalf, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to apply the provisions, so far as they may be applicable, of Act X of 1890 (an Act to amend Act XXV of 1867) to the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore.

No. 167-I., dated Fort William, the 18th January 1894.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Foreign Department.

Whereas the Governor-General in Council has power and jurisdiction within the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore; In exercise of such power and jurisdiction, and of the powers conferred by sections 4 and 5 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, XXI of 1879, and of all other powers enabling him in this behalf, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to apply the provisions, so far as they may be suitable, of Act X of 1890 (an Act to amend Act XXV of 1867) (including sections 1, 2, and 7 which have been repealed in British India by Act XII of 1891) to the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore.

2. For the purpose of facilitiatng the application of the provisions of the said enactment, any Court in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore may construe them with such alterations, not affecting the substance, as may be necessary or proper to adapt them to the matter before the Court.
